

Prepaid Long Distance

Connecting Your Customers is Your Connection to Greater Profits.

Prepaid long distance gives distributors and resellers the ability to offer value-added services while creating new revenue opportunities. The services can be customized for distribution online, or within a retail environment or call center, enabling distributors and resellers to tap into new marketing channels. There is no need for infrastructure, switches or additional technical staff; we take care of these business components so that you can focus on the relationship with your customers. Since the service is hosted by NetworkIP in the cloud, clients retain full control of product attributes, customer experience, billing methodologies and information mining, all online.

NetworkIP Helps you Grow Your Business

Hard Cards - The industry standard, distributors and resellers can offer long distance services by creating their own branded prepaid hard cards with minimal capital and operational costs.

Online - NetworkIP's Web Services API provides all the functionality, performance and flexibility required to build simple web-based PIN products or sophisticated voice applications. Build up a customer base through consistent brand recognition...yours!

PINless - PINless dialing opens up a world of opportunity for distributors and resellers looking to expand their product offering. NetworkIP's Prepaid Long Distance service with PINless capabilities gives customers the ability to place long distance calls via an access number without having to enter a PIN. Whether online or in a retail environment, the opportunity to reach new customers and manage the way you interact with them is limitless.

Sweet Service - As a long-time leader in marketing prepaid long distance, NetworkIP goes above and beyond to help make your business successful.

SMART TECHNOLOGY. SWEET SERVICE.
